Mongolia is a landlocked sovereign state in East Asia. It is bordered by China to the south and Russia to the north. At 1,564,116 square kilometres (603,909 sq mi), Mongolia is the 19th largest and one of the most sparsely populated country in the world, with a population of around 3 million people. It is also the world’s second-largest landlocked country. Approximately 30% of the population is nomadic or semi-nomadic; horse culture is still integral. The majority of its population are Buddhists.

Ulaanbaatar, literally “Red Hero” is the capital and the largest city of Mongolia and its population as of 2014 was over 1.3 million. Located in north central Mongolia, It is the cultural, industrial and financial heart of the country, the centre of Mongolia’s road network and connected by rail to both the Trans-Siberian Railway in Russia and the Chinese railway system. The city was founded in 1639 as a movable (nomadic) Buddhist monastic centre. In 1778, it settled permanently at its present location, at the junction of the Tuul and Selbe rivers. In the twentieth century, Ulaanbaatar grew into a major manufacturing centre. Welcome and let us see countless stars and feel Gravitational Waves of the Universe.
